

Sunlit Beechwoods by Laraine Healey (Watercolour)

Woodlands are a living, breathing part of our landscape and as such they change with time. Artist Laraine Healey says; “The first time I went to Burnham Beeches was on a school outing many years ago.

I never thought that in later life I would be living within 4 miles of this Special woodland. Time has moved on and, although these areas have long since changed, after a lengthy walk I sometimes sit beside the lake and recall the memories of what the woods hold, both for me and for past generations. I will always be inspired by the changing beauty of Burnham Beeches.”
