

Pulpit Hill by Judy Nash (acrylic on canvas)

The trees on Pulpit Hill make a stunning contribution to the landscape, standing tall and clear to be seen for miles around. Artist Judy Nash says; “The trees follow the contours of the hilltop, and in autumn and winter their trunks stand out pale against the sky. This is one of my favourite views in the Chilterns.” In this painting, Judy captures the colours of late autumn and the fresh sharpness of a frosty morning.
